DUTY TO INTERVENE: AN OFFICER'S
DILEMMA – WEBINAR

POST# 25497

Officers have the duty to enforce the law and are accorded certain privileges in carrying out their duties. When an officer exceeds those privileges other officers on the scene have the duty to intervene and restrain the misfeasor officer. The duty to stop torturous conduct by a fellow officer not only creates conflict for police officers, but an officer's failure to intervene can create serious legal consequences.

This 90-Minute presentation covers information critical to making the right decision at the right time.

Topics Include:

- Defining the Duty to Intervene;
- Issues Affecting Officer Duty to Intercede;
- Critical Policy Elements;
- The Five Stages of Intervention; and
- What is a Realistic Opportunity to Intervene.

"One of the things that I trained in use of force was to physically stop an officer who's 'losing it'..... An officer who's 'losing it' is going to do damage to every officer."

Lieutenant Dan Marcou, La Crosse PD (ret.)
